

Curriculum Connections February, 2012: First Graders combined math with the outdoors. Partners traced shadows and measured them with nonstandard units. Returning to their shadows after a group discussion, students also experienced a lesson on the earth's rotation!

